1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: none of the prior art of record teach the claimed positive electrode or alkaline battery including this electrode where the electrode includes a conductive support, a nickel hydroxide active material on the support where an intermediate part of the positive electrode in the thickness direction has a larger porosity than surface parts located on both sides of the intermediate part. The surface parts refer to portions of the electrode support that are filled with active material to a thickness depth of one-third the thickness of the support from the surface while the intermediate part is a portion other than the surface parts. Also, the porosity is evaluated for the surface parts of the entire positive electrode plate and the intermediate part of the entire positive electrode plate.
